

Logging In

Each time you want to make a new post, or make a change to your blog, you'll need to log in.

There are two ways to do this – a quick, easy way, and a longer way.

The quick, easy way

On the wordpress.com homepage, type in your username and password.

Click the 'login' button.

An Introduction to WordPress

The screen will change slightly where you typed in your username and password to show that you've logged in.

Click on the name of your blog to see it.

The longer way...

To log in to your blog, go to the admin login page.

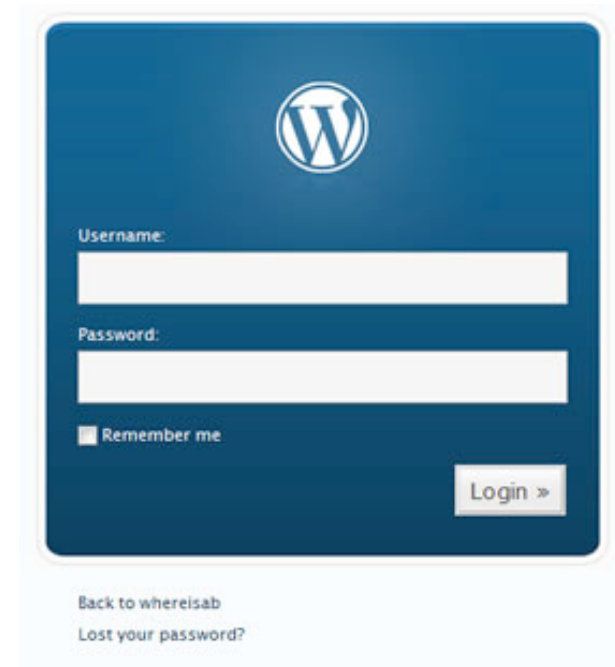

The address will be something like:

<http://myblog.blogs.org/wp-admin.php>

where 'myblog' is the name of your blog.

On the login screen, type your username and password.

Click 'Login >' and you're done!

TIP – if you always use the same machine, tick the 'remember me' box and you can miss out this step in the future – you'll be automatically taken to your dashboard.
